> A Case at Law, in Which They Are Charged With Making More Than Their Commissions.

When the Memphis Cotton Exchange was started it was insisted that in justice to the producer there should be no gambling in any way connected with it, and it was finally established with this understanding. About a year ago the Tennessee Brokerage Associa-tion was established here to meet the demay Is of those speculatively inclined, and it has been doing a most thriving business. There are those who say that the principle upon which it is baset is simply that of kene, and that it is fully as much gambling.

In a "bank" one bets upon black or red; in a "bucket shop" he puts his money upon a rise or fall of wheat, cotton and so forth. There is as much chance for him to win in one as all along that it made NO PROFIT SAVE ITS COMMISSIONS. but this claim is now being disputed before the courts by Mr. J. J. Slover, who is determined to get at the lowest strata of the case.

than that of a mere commission.

The case was brought up before 'Squir Coleman yesterday afternoon, and quite a number of witnesses were examined. Nearly all the afternoon was consumed by the case and it was continued until Monday, when the evidence will be resumed. The case is likely to become one of great interest, and eventually it will involve, probably, the very existence of the "bucket-shop." The concern here is subject to an association in Nashville. The statement of Mr. Slover's side of the case and better be told in his own words. It is as
